Thiruvananthapuram, February 24th, 2003

In an extremely significant development, Visual Graphics Computing Services India Pvt. Ltd. (VGI), a 100% owned subsidiary of McKinsey & Company, has chosen Technopark, Thiruvananthapuram, to be home to its second operations centre in India. This second unit in Thiruvananthapuram will be set up and headed by Mr. Michael Kockemann, Director-VGI. An agreement to this effect was signed today between Mr. N. Ramji, Director-VGI and Mr. Rajiv Vasudevan, CEO-Technopark, in the presence of the IT Secretary, Ms. Aruna Sundararajan, Mr. L.Radhakrishnan, Secretary-Industries, and Mr. R.Narayanan, members of the Technopark Board. VGI shall lease 11,000 sq.ft. on the top floor of the Gayathri Building in Technopark, commence fit out and start operations at the earliest. VGI currently operates out of its 20,000 sq.ft. facility in Tidel Park, Chennai, where it employs approximately 300 professionals.

Welcoming the momentous event, Mr. P.K. Kunhalikutty, Hon.Minister for IT & Industries, Government of Kerala said: "With the World's pre-eminent management consultancy firm investing in Kerala, it can be said without doubt now that Kerala has truly arrived on the IT scene as India's hot new investment destination. McKinsey's decision close in the wake of Infosys's announcement to invest in Kerala, and Allianz Cornhill's decision to set up its ODC in Technopark indicates that this Government's message that Kerala is open for business has been heard and accepted by industry. We are optimistic that this is but the beginning and many other leading firms shall shortly follow. The Government of Kerala thanks the management of McKinsey for the confidence reposed by them and warmly welcomes the McKinsey organization to its shores."
